TANTRAYA QUIZ CARD

What Kind of Dreamer Are You?

For each question, circle the option that feels truest, not the "correct" answer, just the honest one. Tally which letter you circled most. Turn the page to find your type.

1. A dream ends and you wake up buzzing. What made it great?

- ☐ A I flew, swam, or explored somewhere wild and impossible.
- ☐ B Someone important said something I needed to hear.
- ☐ C I nailed a move, a solo, or a skill I've been practicing.
- ☐ D A fear I've carried for years finally lost its grip.
- ☐ E The imagery was so strange and beautiful I wanted to paint it.
- ☐ F I understood something true about myself or reality.

2. Why do you actually want to learn lucid dreaming?

- ☐ A Because it sounds like the ultimate adventure.
- ☐ B To have real conversations with parts of myself I can't reach awake.
- ☐ C To rehearse and improve at something I care about.
- ☐ D To finally face something that's been haunting me.
- ☐ E To mine it for ideas, stories, or art.
- ☐ F To investigate consciousness itself.

3. In a lucid dream, the first thing you'd try is...

- ☐ A Jump off something tall and just fly.
- ☐ B Ask a dream figure a direct question and really listen.
- ☐ C Practice a skill, an instrument, a sport, a speech.
- ☐ D Walk straight toward whatever scares me.
- ☐ E Follow the strangest, most vivid thing in the scene.
- ☐ F Sit still and simply observe the nature of the dream itself.

4. Which classic use of lucid dreaming appeals to you most?

- ☐ A Pure joy-riding through impossible landscapes.
- ☐ B Dialogue with the unconscious mind.
- ☐ C Athletes and musicians rehearsing real skills.
- ☐ D Safely confronting nightmares and old trauma.
- ☐ E Drawing creative inspiration for waking projects.
- ☐ F Direct inquiry into the nature of reality and self.

5. Pick the closing line that feels most like you.

- ☐ A "Let's see how far this world goes."
- ☐ B "What are you trying to tell me?"
- ☐ C "One more time, and I'll have it."
- ☐ D "I'm not afraid of this anymore."
- ☐ E "I need to write this down before I forget it."
- ☐ F "Who is doing the dreaming?"

Your Result

Whichever letter you circled most across the five questions is your dominant dreamer type. Many students are a blend of two, that's normal and worth noting in your journal.

A The Explorer

You dream for the sheer thrill of it, flight, speed, impossible worlds. Freedom is the whole point.

TRY WILD: FULL SENSORY IMMERSION SUITS YOUR APPETITE FOR ADVENTURE.

B The Messenger

You dream to listen. Dream figures aren't obstacles, they're informants from parts of you awake life doesn't reach.

TRY MILD: ITS CLEAR INTENTION-SETTING SUITS FOCUSED INNER DIALOGUE.

C The Skill-BUILDER

You dream to get better. A dream rehearsal is still a rehearsal, and you take the practice seriously.

TRY DILD: STEADY DAILY HABIT-BUILDING MATCHES YOUR DISCIPLINE.

D The Healer

You dream to face what waking life avoids. Fear, grief, and nightmares aren't threats to you, they're doors.

TRY FILD: QUICK, CALM, AND REPEATABLE FOR STEADY EXPOSURE WORK.

E The Artist

You dream to gather material. Strange imagery isn't noise to you, it's raw creative fuel.

TRY SILD: ITS DRIFTING, LOW-EFFORT STYLE IS PERFECT FOR SURFACING IMAGERY.

F The Mystic

You dream to inquire. The dream state itself, not any single dream, is what fascinates you.
